“Texas Country Reporter” To Air “Helping Hand” Episode the Weekend of 11/30-12/1 Special Program Features Deaf and Hard of Hearing Resource Center at Corpus Christi

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

November 5, 2013...Dallas, TX...”Texas Country Reporter” with Bob Phillips, the weekly TV show that recognizes what makes Texas a unique place, devotes an entire episode to the annual Mueller “Helping Hand” project. Sponsored by Mueller, Inc. the community outreach project is in its 5th year of helping organizations who desperately need new facilities in which to operate.

Mike Fry, Mueller’s director of marketing said, “This year’s recipient is The Corpus Christi Area Council for the Deaf. They are the only deaf and hard of hearing resource center for 23 counties in South Texas. They provide equipment, training, education, and interpreter services for thousands of people every year.”

The episode features an in-depth look at the challenges faced by the deaf and hard of hearing community. It follows CCACD throughout the course of the building process, until the emotional day when their wish becomes reality.

It’s the 5th year of the Mueller Helping Hand project. Previous recipients were Scheib Mental Health Center, West Texas Gifts of Hope, Buckholts Volunteer Fire Department, and Titus County Cares.
